

THE LOCOMOTIVE ENGINEER.

When you see him after a long night's travel he does not make a very handsome appearance with his face begrimed with soot, his hands hard and dirty and his clothes slick with grease.

Yet this man has stood with his hand on the throttle-lever of the engine, all the journey through watching between you and death. Often, when the night has been black and boisterous with angry storms or cold and shaken with wintry blizzards, you have lain down in your snug berths, listening to the clatter of the swift moving wheels, with a sense of security, because you knew there was one standing in the cab, with sleepless eye, alert and vigilant against danger, gazing out along the shining steel tracks, conscious of the hundreds of lives entrusted to his care and you had faith that he would not fail in his duty.

Yet, at the stations, while the train waits for passengers to take their meals, none of them think it worth while to speak a word of cheer to him; or to thank him for his faithfulness. The conductor, the brakeman and the porters are brought more or less in contact with the passengers, and they are generally cleanly dressed; they get some acquaintance with each other, and often with the passengers, but the engine driver stands apart—his only company the equally sooty, begrimed though less responsible fireman. And it is to him and his faithful performance of his work, that the hundreds traveling on his train owe their lives. Sober, cool, careful, he has brought you to your journey's end, and while the travelers scatter to their homes or pass to other scenes, praising the railroad companies for the comfort and safety afforded their traveling patrons, how very few give a thought to the brave engineer, whose faithfulness to his trust and skillful hands has hurried them on their way, guarded from accident and death by his never sleeping vigilance.

There are obligations between man and man which cannot be compensated by dollars and cents. The engineer is a man, too, and a kind word of thanks or encouragement is not lost upon him. Every trip he takes his life in his hand; the risk is great.

Give him a kind word, a hand clasp and a hearty "God bless you," and cheer his too often troubled heart by this touch of human sympathy. Remember, that rough, soot begrimed perhaps surely and short voiced, he is one of the world's heroes, and to his nerve and skill you owe more than all the cheery words of greeting will ever repay.—Ex.

The Death Penalty.

A little thing sometimes results in death. Thus a mere scratch, insignificant cut or punny boils have paid the death penalty. It is wise to have Bucklen's Aconite Salve every handy. It's the best Salve on earth and will prevent fatality, when Burns, Sores, Ulcers and Piles threaten. Only 25c, at Z. Wayne Griffin & Bro's., Drug Store.

How to Love a Girl.

All girls like to be loved, but they are not all alike, and care should be taken to discriminate among the many varieties.

In making love to an old maid, the preliminaries only are necessary. Give her a fair start and she will do the rest. Remember that she is making up for lost time and hold on tight and shut your eyes. As long as she has taken the cue don't fear the result. You needn't do a thing.

When she is young and innocent with a frank open-work countenance, and with no experience, get up early every morning and watch her doorstep. There are others on the same trail, and if you wish to be an active member of the club you must do your share of the work. If she accepts flowers and trims readily, don't

HALF SICK

Generally the expression is, "I don't feel half well," though sometimes people say, "I feel half sick." But there is no such thing as being half sick. The man who feels half sick is all sick. As a rule, the cause of the weak, tired, half sick feeling is disease of the stomach, resulting in loss of nutrition and consequently in physical weakness.

Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It restores strength by enabling the perfect digestion and assimilation of food. It makes half sick people all well.

"I suffered for four years with pain in my stomach so that at times I couldn't work nor eat," writes Mr. Frank Smith, of Granite, Chaffee Co., Colo. "I wrote to you about my sickness and was told to use your medicine, which I did with good results. I only used four bottles of your 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and must say that I am entirely cured and feel like a new man, and I can highly recommend your medicine to any sufferer."

"Golden Medical Discovery" contains no alcohol and is entirely free from opium, cocaine and all other narcotics. It is strictly a temperance medicine. Accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery." There is nothing "just as good" for diseases of the stomach.

The "Common Sense Medical Adviser," one thousand and eight large pages, in paper covers, is sent free on receipt of twenty-one one-cent stamps, to pay expense of mailing only. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

If the Kentucky Legislature does not draw a halt on its appropriations, instead of there being over a million dollars in the treasury, by the time that honorable body adjourns, there won't be enough to stop a cracker wagon. Free-Trade Logic Falls Down.

The Free-Trade newspapers are apparently much concerned just now over the alleged increase in prices of woolen clothing, which of course they attribute to the Protective Tariff. But a great many Americans can still remember when wool was free under the late Democratic Tariff law, and few if any of them recall any especial cheapness which resulted. And the wage earners had a much lighter opportunity to get money with which to pay for their clothing. Prices of cotton cloths have recently advanced, owing to the combined efforts of a falling off in production of cotton and the operations of "bull" speculators. There is no duty on cotton, and according to the logic of our Free-Trade friends that article should be cheap. But here is a case where Free-Trade logic falls down, though the anti-Protectionists find it convenient to ignore the facts.—Troy Times.

SAFE DIET RULE.

Eat The Smallest Amount of Food That Will Preserve Good Health.

Extract from Roger S. Tracy's "How to Live Long" in the February Century:

How shall one determine, then, how much food to eat? Too much mystery has been thrown about this subject. Let your sensations decide. It must be kept in mind that the entire function of digestion and assimilation is carried on without conscious supervision or occurrence. It should be entirely unfeared and unknown, accepting by the feeling of bien-etre which accompanies and follows its normal accomplishment. Satiety is had. It implies a sensation of fullness in the region of the stomach and that means that too much food has been taken.

The exact correspondence in a healthy animal, between the appetite and the amount of food required is extraordinary. As a rule the meal, unless eaten very slowly, should cease before the appetite is entirely satisfied, because a little time is required for the outlying organs and tissues to feel the effects of the food that has been ingested. If too little has been taken it is easy enough to make it up at the next meal, and the appetite will be only the better and the food more grateful.

No one was very sorry for having voluntarily eaten too little, while million every day repent have eaten too much. It has been said that the great lesson homeopathy taught the world was this: That whereas physicians had been in the habit of giving the patient the largest dose he could stand they have been led to see that their purposes were better subserved by giving him the smallest dose that would produce the desired effect. And so it is that food. Instead of eating, as most people unfortunately do, as much as they can, they should eat the smallest amount that will keep them in good health.

A proper amount of sleep is of course absolutely essential to continued good health; but if dietetic habits are correct, it is a matter which will regulate itself. If a rule is needed, one will follow naturally from the fact that almost every one feels languid on waking and is disposed to take another nap, no matter how long he has been sleeping. This is a morbid sensation which it would take too long to explain here. It is enough to say that lack of sleep should be made up, if possible, at the beginning and not at the end. The best general rule is to rise at a given hour every morning whether tried or not, and go to bed when sleepy.

An Early Riser.

A strong, healthy, active constitution depends largely on the condition of the liver. The famous little pills known as DeWitt's Little Early Risers not only cleanse the system but they strengthen the action of the liver and rebuild the tissues supporting the organ. Little Early Risers are easy to act, they never gripe and yet they are absolutely certain to produce results that are satisfactory in all cases. Sold by Z. Wayne Griffin & Bro.

Suicide Prevented.

The startling announcement that a preventative of suicide has been discovered will interest many. A run down system, or despondency invariably precede suicide and something has been found that will prevent that condition which makes suicide likely. At the first thought of self destruction take Electric Bitters. It being a great tonic and nerveine will strengthen the nerves and builds up the system. It's also a great Stomach, Liver and Kidney regulator. Only 50c. Satisfaction guaranteed by Z. Wayne Griffin & Bro., Druggists.

Cast Your Bread Upon the Waters.

The savior said when upon the earth, "the poor ye have always with you," says an exchange. His prophetic eye seems to have pierced the future and to have outlined the conditions or all times. There are many worthy poor in this world whom fate seems to have doomed to eternal poverty. They are not always shiftless or profligate, but it seems that the hand of indigence is heavily upon them. An immutable destiny seems to place them in a certain niche in life's mysterious scheme from which they are utterly powerless to escape. The reverse is true under opposite conditions. Some men seem to make money and not half try. Then, how generous and how dutiful it is for the favored and fortunate one to their substance to their less fortunate and darkly destined companions in life.
